Medical Liability

As part of the Governor's Task Force on Medical Liability Reform, New York State Insurance Superintendent Eric Dinallo has stated that without legislative action to control medical liability insurance rates, to keep the medical liability insurance companies solvent, it will be necessary to impose:

- a 15-25% premium increase per physician per year for several years;*
- a cumulative $50,000 surcharge on each physician in New York State, to be collected over multiple years;*

Most physicians in New York State are now paying 55-80% more for their liability insurance in 2008 than they were in 2003. Do you want to pay more?

Managed Care Reform

Fundamental reform is needed to counter the immense power wielded by these companies. In fact, an astounding 80% of the state's managed care enrollees are insured by only seven health plans. Most physicians are regularly presented "take it or leave it" contracts that impose one-sided terms.
